

On may 2009 I was unexpectantly diagnosed with a rare pancreatic cancer,a solid tumor 2cm in size at the tail of my pancreas.At the time this was only found by accident as I had no symptoms of pain but have a history of a heamangioma in my liver that was monitored with annual MRI's.The only treatment available at the time was a resection of the tumor for a possible cure.

I had no radiation or chemo therapy,just the operation and with this developed pleural effusion in the left base of my lung which left me to have another procedure(and left me with scarring) and in hospital for 5 weeks to recover.

For the next year I was monitored with frequent MRI'S every 6 months with no guarantees of the tumor not coming back.In june of 2010 someone suggested I see a Dr Chen who helped people with cancer through chinese medicine and acupuncture.Rather than sit and wait for the cancer to possibly come back,I seeked alternative therapy,which I researched,and saw Dr Chen.He reassured me with acupuncture ,chinese herbal medicine and a strict diet of no red meat or dairy and organic fruit and vegetables,the treatment would build up my immune system to fight of any cancer cells in my body.

It has been just over 2 years now and with annual MRI'S I remain free of any cancer reoccurence, thanks to the treatment of chinese herbs,acupuncture,diet and the help and guidance from Dr chen.
